THE WIDE WORLD.

THIS DAY'S DESPATCHES.

Atheistic Congress a Fiasco.

Special to THE TIMES.

ROME, June 1.—The atheistic congress is a fiasco. No English delegate put in an appearance and very few others attended.

The Italian Flag Hoisted in Suakim.

Special to THE TIMES.

SUAKIM, June 1.—The Italian consul hoisted the flag of his government here to-day. The fact that this is the first appointment since peace reigned causes much remark.

Russia Objects.

LONDON, June 1.—Advices from Sinjon say it is reported that the Russians have objected to Afghans occupying Karawul Khana, where the road branches off half way between Maruchak and Bala Murghaob.

Central Asia Railways.

LONDON, May 31.—St. Petersburg advices state that the building of the Central Asian railway is proceeding with extreme rapidity. Thirteen hundred laborers have just left Baku to work on the road, and it is reported that 6000 more will follow immediately.

Brighter Crop Prospects.

LONDON, May 31.—The most encouraging feature of the agricultural outlook is the favorable change in the weather which has come at the most opportune time, when warmth and sunshine will produce the best results, especially as it has been preceded by copious rains. The backward condition of crops and discoloration of wheat have been sources of complaint, but it is now admitted that no lasting injury was done, and if the present fine weather continues a rapid improvement in harvest prospects is expected.

Victor Hugo's Funeral.

Special to THE TIMES.

PARIS, June 2.—The crowd at Victor Hugo's funeral on Sunday were mostly composed of workingmen and the middle classes. They treated the event as a holiday. There was not a great display of emotion. The police treated the occasional showing of red flags quietly, simply requesting when they were displayed, that the holders should hide them. Upon the refusal to comply with that suggestion the officers snatched them away and allowed the holders to go free. The removal of the decorations has already begun.

Fearful Earthquake in India.

Special to THE TIMES.

LONDON, June 2.—Dispatches from Bombay state that the news has just reached there of a disastrous earthquake in the Cashmere country of India. Serious shocks began on Sunday, and have continued at intervals of ten minutes ever since. The shocks were very severe at Serenaguire, the capital of Cashmere. The barracks, in which several hundreds of soldiers were quartered, were completely destroyed, notwithstanding so solidly that nearly half of them were imprisoned in the debris. Fifty are known to be killed, while fully 100 are more or less injured. A portion of the city has been demolished while several of the remaining buildings escaped injury have large rents made in them. The people became panic-stricken shortly after the disturbances began, and fled from the city to take refuge in boats and tents in open fields. The total number killed and wounded is not yet known, nor full extent of damage done owing to the interruption and working of the telegraph wires. It is feared the loss of life is heavy as the latest information from there calls for help, saying hundreds of animals have been killed and the distress among the people very great.

Another Victim of the Pistol.

Special to THE TIMES.

CINCINNATI, O., June 2.—Shortly before 2 o'clock this morning Dr. E. E. Loy, a well known M. D., shot and killed his brother-in-law, Harry Champden, at their residence, No. 377 West South street. Champden is unmarried, and has been addicted to drinking for some time past. He has been in the habit of demanding and obtaining money from his mother. He went home in a partly drunken condition; went to his mother's bedside and began abusing her. He awakened a visitor, Mrs. Glenn, who went to him and begged him to desist; he struck her with a chair and returned to abuse his mother. This aroused Dr. Loy and Mrs. Loy, Champden's sister, and they came to the room. Champden rushed down stairs, got a carving knife and returned. Dr. Loy warned him to stop, but Champden, with an oath rushed at him with the knife. The Dr., who was standing in front of his wife, fired, and Champden fell. Dr. Loy says he fired the shot to scare him, but it was found that Champden was dying, the ball having entered between his eyes. Dr. Loy was taken to the station house and locked up on the charge of murder. He regretted deeply the affair, but made a clear statement of the entire transaction, showing that he acted solely in self-defence.

Taken Out of Jail and Lynched.

Special to THE TIMES.

WESTMINSTER, (Ind.), June 2.—At 1:30 o'clock this morning a body of masked men rode into the city and went at once to the jail where Townsend Cook, colored, was imprisoned for the outrage on Mrs. Knott, near Mount Ayrey, a few days ago. They broke down the doors of the jail, overpowered the sheriff and proceeded to Cook's cell; placed a rope around his neck, after which he was led out and put into a wagon, and then the maskers proceeded on to Mount Ayrey road. At 3 o'clock the body of Cook was found hanging from a tree, about two miles from this place. Two bullet wounds were in the back of his neck. A piece of paper tacked to the tree bore the words written in pencil: "This man confessed his crime." No clue has yet been obtained as to who were engaged in the lynching.

Middleton Advanced to Meet Big Bear.

OTTAWA, May 31.—An official dispatch from Battleford, dated 30-day, has been received here, stating that Middleton had left that place at 8:30 a.m., with re-inforcements on the steamers Marquis and Atlanta, to meet Big Bear. The reinforcement consisted of the Tenth Midland battalion, the Ninth Battalion Winnipeg with two Gatling guns, fifty of the garrison artillery, Boulton's mounted infantry, scouts, and fifty mounted police, under command of Colonel Herchmer. The water in the North Saskatchewan was reported to be high, and Colonel Middleton was expected to reach Pitt this evening.

Suicide of a Prominent Official in a St. Louis Hotel.

Special to THE TIMES.

ST. LOUIS, MO., June 2.—R. M. Reynolds, late first auditor of the U. S. treasury, killed himself this morning at the Southern Hotel here. There is an air shaft in the hotel over the rotunda which cuts through the different floors. At five minutes to 5 o'clock Reynolds either jumped or fell over the railing on the third story into the air shaft. He struck the marble floor of the rotunda with a report that was heard all over the hotel. He was picked up dead in front of the office. His skull was fractured, and one of his legs shattered. A visit made to Reynolds' room disclosed the fact that it was full of gas, although the stop cock was turned. Hence the theory is held in the hotel that he must have committed suicide. After failing to asphyxiate himself he took the terrible resolve to throw himself to the marble floor below. Reynolds made a careful toilet. He has been in St. Louis since Saturday, stopping with C. H. Albes, but left that gentleman's house and put up at the hotel last night. He was in excellent spirits when last seen alive, and no motive can be suggested for self destruction. He was on his way to Kansas to buy land. He left the U. S. treasury only a couple of weeks ago. He was about sixty years of age; a fine looking, healthy man.

General Grant's Lease of Life.

NEW YORK, May 30.—The Sun says: "At a recent consultation physicians expressed opinions as to how long General Grant would live. Sands thinks it is a matter of three months, while Shrady thinks it is a matter of six months. The disease is progressing very slowly, but very surely."

AUSTRALIAN LETTER.

A Few Excerpts From a Letter by a Former Times Reporter.

We have been permitted to make the following extracts from a private letter written by Mr. L. H. Darlington, formerly of THE TIMES staff, but now in Sydney, N. S. W., to a friend in this city. After describing the usual incidents of a voyage from Victoria to Sydney in the ship Corsica, he says: "I have always heard that the

was very fine, and it certainly deserves that compliment. It is claimed that the three finest harbors in the world are those of Rio Janeiro, San Francisco and Sydney. I now have had the pleasure of seeing all three, and do not hesitate in giving the latter the credit of being by far the finest of the three, so far as my opinion goes. Sydney is a very pretty city, with a population of 300,000. There are many beautiful residences here, and every house has a flower garden around it. It is the most wonderful country for flowers I ever saw. This is the

in this southern latitude, and the present month (April) corresponds with October in Victoria. Harvesting is at present in progress and a great deal of business is being done. The climate is perfect, and I never spoke of one quick. I like it so much that I am unable to say when I shall leave. Everybody seems to take life easy and are apparently about as prosperous as the other p e o p l e I have ever been in. I never before visited a place where I was so favorably impressed in so short a time. They are unusually courteous and pleasant, and I like them very much. The city, as a rule, is in unusually fine condition, and it would be a credit to any country. I have had a long talk with Hanlan. He admits that he was fairly defeated in the last race, but says he could have won the former had the steamers kept out of the way. Disinterested parties, however, who witnessed both contests state that Hanlan was both times, and that Beach is by far the better man of the two. Beach is a very pleasant man, and I believe a perfect gentleman in every sense of the word. The prospect of a war is making matters very exciting here. There are now a number of English men-of-war in port, and more are on the way. The large steamships of the Orient line, running between here and London, are being armed and made ready to fight their way through when war is declared. This is a fine country—plenty of work for everybody and all receive remarkably good pay. Altogether I am more than satisfied with the country, and consider it has the leisure and means to make the journey."

Solicitude for the Captives.

Strange's encounter with Big Bear has again aroused interest in the progress of the Indian war. It is fully expected that Middleton will have trouble with Big Bear before the latter is subdued. Meantime there is much solicitude for the welfare of the captives in the Indian camps, as it is hard to tell what the Indians may do with them. Middleton left Battleford for Fort Pitt this morning, with some 600 men, the companies being selected from the Ninetieth rifles, the Queen's Own, Toronto Grenadiers, Midland, "A" and "B" batteries, mounted police and Boulton's mounted men. More will probably follow.

Trouble at Medicine Hat.

Trouble is reported from Medicine Hat. Several parties of horse-stealing Indians are reported within twenty miles of that point. Two of Stewart's mounted rangers were fired at on Saturday by a band of Indians, numbering 150. It is not known what tribe the hostiles belonged to. Stewart's force has gone in pursuit. THE dowager Queen Isabella of Spain is likely to have an annuity of $50,000 from the government.

THE Prince of Wales will unveil the statue of DARWIN at the National Historical museum at Kensington early in June.

RIOTS continue in Turkestan among the large number of inhabitants who oppose the payment of the heavy taxes levied upon them by Russia.

THE Spanish government proposes to expend 260,000,000 pesetas in ten years to increase and strengthen the navy.

THE Antwerp international exhibition is reported to be a great success, the Canadian display being one of the finest.

THE Austrian government is drafting a bill for the state recognition of the Anglican Church, which hitherto has been only tolerated in Austria.

IT is announced that the government will only use £8,000,000 of the £11,000,000 voted for the army and navy.

MR. POWELL, secretary of the Church of England Workingmen's society, leaves London for the United States to-day, on a mission of his society.

THERE is great political excitement throughout the Austrian empire over the approaching elections to the reichsrath. So far no socialist candidates have been put forward.

ALMOST the first gun of the coming election campaign is the announcement that BRADLAUGH will be the choice of a London district if he fails in Northampton.

RT. REV. GEORGE MOBERLY, Bishop of Salisbury, will resign this summer. He is eighty-two years of age, and is one of the five clergymen who published, between 1857 and 1870, revised versions of ST. JOHN, the epistles of PAUL and of the epistle of ST. JAMES.

IT is reported that Turkey is concentrating 40,000 soldiers in the vilayet of Kossovo as a precautionary measure against the revolution which is at present being agitated in Bulgaria, Eastern Roumania and Macedonia.

PROF. VAMBERY has returned to Vienna from his lecturing tour in England. He says he was surprised at the ignorance and apparent lack of interest among Englishmen concerning the whole Central Asian question.

THE first number of Ruskin's illustrated autobiography will appear in June. It will be completed in thirty numbers and three volumes. The title will be "Praeteria, the outlines of scenes and thoughts, perhaps worthy of memory, in my past life."

THE English consul at Philippolis has demanded from the government of Eastern Roumelia $25,000 for damages to his property during the riots on St. George's day, April 23 last. The Greeks there have petitioned the porte for a Turkish garrison as a protection against the recurrence of riots.

Montreal Herald: The experience of the last two months has taught the Canadians that the Indians do not require much encouragement to join a rebellion, and that when they are on the war path they are treacherous, brutal and relentless, their past fair treatment by the Canadian government apparently not inspiring a spark of gratitude in the savage breast.

THE present expulsion by Germany, at the request of Russia, of Poles from the Provinces of Posen and Silesia, is said to be attended by the most cruel and heartrending incidents. Poles are fleeing to Austria fro n those provinces. The Viennese interpret the expulsion as fresh evidence of the binding nature of the present connection between Germany and Russia, and of their united policy to entirely suppress the Polish nationality.

A WOMAN named JEFFRIES, convicted of keeping disorderly houses in London, insulted the king of Belgium during the trial. Since then the home secretary refuses to make any inquiries. The Pall Mall Gazette says it has the name of all concerned, and threatens to make them public. It says the light sentence was the price paid to the woman for her silence. This bold move has received much approval.

WILL HE RETIRE?

The political elements in Britain at present are in a very unsettled condition. In the clubs it has become an open secret that MR. GLADSTONE is anxious to retire from active political life in which he has been so prominent a figure for close upon half a century. Many to-day regard his star as brighter than at any previous period of his wonderful career. The cares of office with declining years are beginning to tell on his health, and it is well known that talk of his retirement has more meaning than it had in 1873, when he resigned because he had been defeated by three votes on a measure of comparatively minor importance. Then he calculated upon his return to power by a magnificent majority. He was overwhelmingly defeated and became melancholy, and threatened retirement for good from the exciting atmosphere of that part of London between the national gallery and St. Stephen's. But he never showed any signs of retirement, and HARTINGTON soon found that his own reputed leadership was of a decidedly platonic character, and MR. GLADSTONE returned to the front and began the heaviest work he had ever undertaken during his public life, and achieved some of his greatest triumphs in reformatory legislation. The strain of the past six months would have killed most strong men, and Mr. GLADSTONE has been appreciably affected, but by no means incapacitated. He will not retire until the battle is fought in the present parliament and the dissolution takes place. MR. GLADSTONE has had a harder fight with the radical element in his own party than with the Conservatives. He has been charged with extreme radicalism himself, and he has advocated some very radical measures; but his experience has taught him that the true policy is to go slowly, and consequently, having two such radicals in his own cabinet as MR. CHAMBERLAIN and SIR CHARLES DILKE, who proclaimed his ultra-democratic views rather vigorously a decade ago, he has had to curb them and the element they represent, and the effort to keep the Liberal elements consolidated has cost him a world of anxiety and trouble. MR. CHAMBERLAIN's views are colored very decidedly with socialism, and the Conservatives regard him as a very dangerous man in consequence, especially as he possesses no ordinary powers as a public speaker. The rumors of a cabinet crisis during the week have been based on serious contentions on the Irish measures. It was even reported to-day that SIR CHARLES DILKE, president of the home government board, had tendered his resignation before going to Dublin. His organ, the Dispatch, has been advising the radicals to combine and get a more radical leader than MR. GLADSTONE. SIR CHARLES DILKE will be entertained at Dublin castle by EARL SPENCER, and will meet a commission appointed to provide better tenements for the Dublin poor. It is believed that the government will very materially modify the crimes' act, owing to the fine organization for obstruction which the Parnellites possess, and that a very weak shadow of the old act which has given so much trouble will be presented to parliament after the Whitsuntide holidays. Certain it is that MR. GLADSTONE will use his utmost powers to prevent a split in his party, which will jeopardize its return to power and give the Conservatives the reins, decidedly committed as they are to a war with Russia. The danger to the Liberal party arises from the possible coalition of Conservatives under the leadership of the dashing Lord Randolphe Churchill, with the radical element of the Liberal party and the Irish party, in opposition to the renewal of the crimes act in any form. MR. GLADSTONE is fully aware of the injurious effect of the resignation of either Dilke or Chamberlain at this juncture.

INDIA AND AFGHANISTAN.

India has in no manner relaxed her gigantic preparations for war. The policy now being pursued in that country evidently is to be prepared for any future contingency. Lord DUFFERIN's suggestions in almost every instance are being carried into effect. So strong is India in her fortifications, and so perfect her army organizations that he is of the opinion that India alone can now defend her mighty empire. An era of railway development is to be inaugurated, a loan of $50,000,000 is proposed for railway construction which will enable the government to mass troops on the northwest frontier as readily as Russia can mass hers from the Caucasus. Three lines are proposed west of the Indus, and another line on the east bank. The line up the Bolan pass will be opened to Mach next month, shortening the distance to Quettah by forty miles. Abundance of military supplies have been sent to Quettah and Rindli. Quettah secures the Bolan pass and overlaps the Afghan frontier. From there to Candahar the route lies chiefly over an open plain, through cultivated fields studded with villages. There are no serious difficulties to railway construction to Candahar, on the Urgend river. The importance of Candahar lies in the fact that it is on the great caravan road between Persia and Western Afghanistan on one hand and India and Eastern Afghanistan on the other hand, and its possession will bring England within easy striking distance of Herat. The Khan of Khelat, whose territory commands the Bolan pass on the south, is the firm ally of England.

MR. ALEXANDER MACKENZIE's voice is completely gone. He has not spoken over a minute or two during the present session of the commons. The throat affection of the ex-Premier is an unfortunate one for the Liberal party as well as for MR. MACKENZIE.

BRITAIN'S NEW FRANCHISE BILL.

The English papers are at present discussing in a somewhat animated manner the merits of the new British registration act just passed by the lords. This bill regulates the methods of registering the 2,000,000 voters who will, under the new franchise bill be added in the coming campaign to the electorate of Great Britain. Take a single feature of the bill, for example; when the measure was sent by the commons up to the lords for concurrence, the peers amended the bill and sent it back. This amendment disqualifies from voting in England every man who accepted parish medical relief, no matter how well entitled he may otherwise be to suffrage. Many people are unable to see any sense in this bill, and regard it as the latest child's trick of the peers to impose further restrictions upon the progress of democracy in Great Britain. The lords threw the franchise bill out twice, and were finally coerced into passing it by a threat to stuff the house of lords with a lot of new titles. This medical amendment is a form of puny revenge. In these southern and western counties most of the workmen have large families, and the parish physicians, who are usually skillful and charge no fees, have been professional visitors to a large proportion of these families. Think of refusing to allow a decent man to vote simply because the public physician has attended his wife or children ill with scarlet fever, which has been an epidemic in these counties! That is what the lords have decreed. The amendment will disfranchise thousands of men in the western and southern counties. Then again the lords confine the operation of their amendment to England. It ignores Ireland. The Irish voter is allowed the privilege of having scarlet fever medicine and doctors of all kinds without risking the loss of his vote. The peers explain their partiality by saying that the amendment, if applied to Ireland, would disfranchise the entire laboring population of the country. So it would. Such are exigencies of British politics that the commons will accept this amendment in order to insure the passage of the bill before recess. The Irish papers are rejoicing over the immunity of their country from the terms of this block-headed amendment.

ROBUST HEALTH

Is not always enjoyed by those who seem to possess it. The taint of corrupted blood may be secretly undermining the constitution. In time, the poison will certainly show its effects, and with all the more virulence the longer it has been allowed to permeate the system. Each pimple, sty, boil, skin disorder and sense of unnatural lassitude, or languor, is one of Nature's warnings of the consequences of neglect.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Is the only remedy that can be relied upon, in all cases, to eradicate the taint of hereditary disease and the special corruptions of the blood. It is the only alterative that is sufficiently powerful to thoroughly cleanse the system of Scrofulous and Mercurial impurities and the pollution of Contagious Diseases. It also neutralizes the poisons left by Diphtheria and Scarlet Fever, and enables rapid recuperation from the enfeeblement and debility caused by these diseases.

Myriads of Cures

Achieved by AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, in the past forty years, are attested, and there is no blood disease, at all possible of cure, that will not yield to it. Whatever the ailments of this class, and wherever found, from the scurvy of the Arctic circle to the "veldt-sores" of South Africa, this remedy has afforded health to the sufferers by whom it was employed. Druggists everywhere can cite numerous cases, within their personal knowledge, of remarkable cures wrought by it, where all other treatment had been unavailing. People will do well to

Trust Nothing Else

than AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. Numerous crude mixtures are offered to the public as "blood purifiers," which only allure the patient with the pretense of many cheap doses, and with which it is folly to experiment while disease is steadily becoming more deep-seated and difficult of cure. Some of these mixtures do much lasting harm. Bear in mind that the only medicine that can radically purify the vitiated blood is

FARM AND GARDEN

Planting and Pruning Orchards.

We have mentioned among insect pests the apple maggot, which is adding a new terror to the battles the orchardist must fight. To get rid of him, we say last, as we said first, turn the hogs into the orchard during the summer season. We give herewith a picture of this little villain, the apple maggot, in his three forms—fly, worm, and pupa. Look out for him.

In October the apple maggot goes into the ground in the chrysalis or pupa state, and remains there till the next July. Then, unless the hogs have meantime rooted him out and made a morsel of him, he bursts his shell and appears as the fly. In this state he is two-winged, and looks like the common house-fly, except that he is smaller. He is black, marked with white, and has a red head and feet. Here he is:

THE FLY.

When the creature comes out of the ground it lays its eggs upon the apple. These hatch and become visible to the naked eye in September, in the shape of maggots. Sometimes a dozen of the nasty creatures are found in one apple.

THE PUPA. THE MAGGOT.

Our illustration shows on the left the pupa, or insect in its chrysalis state; on the right the maggot itself. They look much alike. The maggot is white, sometimes with a greenish tinge, and about one-fifth of an inch long. At its head, plainly seen, are two black hooks. With these the creature gouges and tunnels our rich, mellow autumn apples through and through. Unless his career is stopped he will soon get into every orchard in the country.

For large apple trees, the best distance apart is 30 feet in all directions. For those of the largest size, in a deep, strong soil, 40 feet is not too much. In planting your orchard, prepare the ground first by subsoil plowing. It is not enough to dig a place and chuck the nursery tree into it, roots doubled up, as though your young fruit bearer was a wooden post in a posthole. A growing tree is something very different from a fence post. In places half way between north and south, where late frosts are apt to come unexpectedly and ruin all, never plant your orchard where it will have a southerly or easterly exposure. A northern hillside is best. Many of the best farmers now plant a belt of quick growing forest trees or of evergreens as a wind break on the north side of their orchards. You may plant your apple trees either in late fall or early spring. An old orchardist says: "It is better to have one tree well planted than three planted badly, and more fruit may be anticipated within the first ten years, if not forever, from the first one than from all the others." Lack of pruning and want of fertilizing and cultivation will speedily make barren fig trees of the best young apple sprouts nature can make. An apple tree is not a product of nature exactly, as has been well said. It is the result largely of domestication and culture by man. It will not, therefore, thrive if left to itself, like a forest tree. Its soil must be enriched and its branches kept trimmed constantly. Pruning should be done regularly yearly. No method of pruning, either, is better than pinching off undesirable buds when the trees are young. This method avoids wounding the branches. There is scarcely a more discouraging task before the farmer than to climb into the trees of a stubborn, neglected old orchard and attempt to thin out its thickly grown branches with ax and saw. He rains his temper, tears his trousers, and makes his bones ache for weeks. All this may be avoided by watching the trees as if they were real living beings, cutting back the growth where they run to wood and height, and thinning out the branches and making the tree look ship-shape. Attend to them every year and they will not get ahead of you. The apple tree wants sunlight and air in all its foliage, or it will not do its best. A choked-up treetop cannot bear fruit. The difference between fruit buds and wood buds, the methods of budding, grafting, etc., are things every farmer knows already. If he does not, the sooner he finds out the better. His nearest neighbor can probably tell him.

There has been much discussion about which is the best season for pruning. As a matter of fact, it may be done at any time during the season when the tree is at rest. But if an old orchard has been neglected for any reason, so that there are in it trees which require the lopping off of large branches, that is best done in May or June, when the growth of the tree is vigorous. The stumps of the limbs thus left bleeding must be thoroughly covered with grafting wax.

We have been at some pains to find a list of the best kinds of apples for the farmer to plant in a mixed orchard for home and market use. For a market apple for fall and winter, no apple is more desirable than the Rome Beauty. It is a strong, fuller bearer than most other sorts. It also keeps in sounder condition. For cooking purposes, no apple could be better. But for eating raw, in some seasons it is rather dry and tough.

The varieties named below are those that have been tried and found good in nearly all parts of the United States where this fruit grows:

Summer Apples.—Early Harvest, Red Astrachan, Large Yellow Bough.

Fall Apples.—Rambo, Golden Sweet, Gravenstein, Fall Pippin.

Winter Apples.—Baldwin, Northern Spy, Rhode Island Greening, Westfield Seek-no-further, Russet, Yellow Bellflower and Newtown Spitzenberg.

In various parts of the country there are other apples for fall and winter known among the friends in the Union Brotherhood. As well as the strawberry, probably the Almighty might have made a better apple than the Green Winesap, but doubtless He never did.

Paris and American Journalism.

[Morrisown Herald.]

A monthly journal published in Paris is devoted to nothing but the art of "stamp collecting." There are quite a number of daily and weekly journals in the United States devoted to the same subject, but we doubt if any of them have more "stamps" than they collect.

After a Theological Discussion.

[The Judge.]

If you will go to hear Bob Ingersoll on "Orthodoxy," don't go home and air his views to your wife, more especially if she happens to be a minister's daughter.

How to Run a Slow Race.

[Texas Siftings.]

Two sporting characters, A and B, proposed to run their horses, the slowest to win. They tried to make the race, but did not succeed, for as each rider wanted to come in last, they went slower and slower, and finally came to a standstill. They did not know how to run the race until a happy thought occurred to one of them.

They simply swapped horses. A rode B's horse and B mounted A's horse. Each rider then did his best to make the horse he was on go as fast as possible, so as to come in first, so that his own horse, which the other man was riding, would be beaten, thereby winning the money as the slowest horse.

He was Quiet on One Point.

[Atlanta Constitution.]

"Pinder," severely demanded Mrs. Fitzgoober, "did you take your medicine last night?" "Yes, ma'am," sweetly answered that cherub. About an hour afterward the lady found the mixture of compound bitterness that had been intended for Pinder's cold lying snugly under the washstand. "Pinder!" she yelled. "Yes, ma'am." "I thought you told me you had taken your medicine." "So I did, ma; but you didn't ask me where I took it to, so I kept quiet on that point." But he didn't keep quiet on the point of her rod.

A Warning to Whistlers.

[Puck.]

A Vermont man whistled for what he thought was his dog in the distance.

But it proved to be a bear.

The Difficulties of Arkansas Journalism.

[Through Mail.]

It costs more to run a newspaper in Arkansas, according to an exchange, than in any other state of the Union. It is pretty generally known that the principal item of expense is the salary of the surgeon on the staff. In Arkansas, when an editor libels a man, he is not sued. The outraged citizen simply arms himself with a double-barreled shot-gun and makes a slave of the editor. Arkansas editors find it convenient to have a surgeon employed by the year to sit at a desk in their respective offices and be ready to act at any moment.

Southern Fruits at New Orleans.

The great competition for first premiums on tropical fruits at the Exposition will lie between Florida and California. Florida is well in line. Three carloads of fruits have recently arrived. It will be a surprise to many northern visitors to the Exposition to know that there are over 60 kinds of oranges. There are flat little Mandarins and deep yellow Tangerines that look like the Early Smooth Red tomato. From these the display runs up to mammoths that are as large as a small baby's head. The real Florida orange, in its prime, is about the best of its kind that grows. Florida exhibits many varieties; she also shows a beautiful array of citrons and limes and enormous lemons. The grape fruit, or shaddock, in this exhibit is quite new to many people in the north. It is a beautiful sight, hanging in great clusters from the large glossy tree. The fruit itself looks like a huge, pale orange. So large does the grape fruit grow that it measures sometimes 18 inches around. The pulp inside grows also like the orange. The taste is like that of a sour orange with a slight grapey flavor. As a tart breakfast appetizer a quarter or half of one is unexcelled.

The southern states are waking to the importance of fruit culture as they never did before. There is a vast and rich field here for the future. Florida shows still other fruits unfamiliar to the north, such as the sweet and sour sop and the alligator pear.

Next after Florida comes Mississippi in the display of fruits from southern states. She also displays handsome oranges. It will be new to many that this fruit grows in Mississippi. From the same state there were ripe strawberries in December and again in January. This state also exhibits fine pecans and pomegranates, and the new and popular Japanese persimmon. It promises to be a valuable acquisition to our fruits. The other southern states have not come up to the mark in respect to fruit. We have in the exposition from Mexico the varieties already mentioned, and cocoanuts, pineapples, bananas and nuts besides. Jamaica has eighty kinds of sugar cane, also nutmegs, coffee berries, vanilla beans and a fine display of other tropical fruits and nuts. Honduras sends bananas, pineapples and oranges. Altogether the magnificent collection of southern fruits here brought together forms one of the handsomest and most instructive departments of the great Exposition.

The annual salaries of the cabinet officers, congress aggregate $320,000; for representatives $1,095,000.

"When my wife heard a neighbor tell what Hop Bitters had done for her, she at once got and gave me some. The first dose eased my brain and seemed to go hunting through my system for the pain.

"The second dose eased me so much that I slept two hours, something I had not done for two months. Before I had used five bottles I was well and at work as hard as any man could, for over three weeks; but I worked too hard for my strength, and taking a hard cold, I was taken with the most acute and painful rheumatism all through my system that ever was known.

"I called the doctors again, and after several weeks they left me a cripple on crutches for life, as they said. I met a friend and told him my case, and he said Hop Bitters had cured him and would cure me. I groaned at him, but he was so earnest I was induced to use them again.

"In less than four weeks I threw away my crutches and went to work lightly and kept on using the Bitters for five weeks, until I became as well as any man living, and have been so for six years since.

It has also cured my wife, who had been sick for years, and has kept her and my children well and healthy with from two to three bottles per year. There is no need to be sick at all if these Bitters are used. J. J. BERK,

CITY AND PROVINCE.

—Northwest's letter will appear to-morrow.

—The people of Nicola are to have a good time, July 1st and 2nd.

—To-morrow we shall continue our extracts from the Victoria correspondent of the Manchester Examiner.

—Mr. J. B. Ferguson, of this city, was in Winnipeg, en route for Montreal, on the 26th ult.

—Mr. Fry, C. E., and family, Kamloops, have left the employment upon the C. P. R. to accept a position upon the Island Railway, near his old home at Cowichan.

—The British Union cannery has been bought by Mr. Joseph Spratt for $3250. This includes plant, buildings, and fifteen acres of land.

—The sealing schooner Anna Beck has returned from the west coast bringing 1000 skins. She reports the catch a light one.

—A number of new settlers are going into the neighborhood of Cowichan Lake, and others are expected to follow them from the old country.

—The Yosemite arrived about 2.20. She landed at Cadboro Bay on the way down, where a number of her passengers disembarked and drove into the city.

—Three hundred and twenty thousand feet of lumber were sold at Whatcom last week, for $1600. This was at the rate of $5 a thousand, or less than the cost of the logs alone.

—The Geo. E. Starr brought freight for: J Weller, S Leiser, H Saunders, W R Megan, Moore & Co, D E Campbell, T Earle, R Baker, S J Pitts, R Carr, A Offner, J Strouss, J Brown.

—The W. C. T. U. met last evening in Temperance Hall. Addresses were given by Mrs. McNaughton and Messrs. Barss, Fraser, Robson and Ellis. Miss Pierre sang and Miss Cameron gave a recitation, both of which were well appreciated.

—The marriage of Mr. W. H. Armstrong, master mechanic of the C. P. R. at Yale, and Miss Ellen M. Ward, was celebrated last evening at St. John's church. The happy couple will proceed to their home at Yale to-day.

—The Court of Assize at Kamloops opened on Monday, Hon. Justice Walkem presiding. We learn there are a number of important cases to be taken up. There are twelve prisoners in the jail at present—crowding the accommodation provided.

—A fair audience greeted the appearance of Prof. de Lassomm at Philharmonic Hall last evening. The illusionary tricks and sleight of hand performances of the professor were cleverly executed. Another performance will be given this evening.

—The Indians of this province are excluded from the Franchise Act now under discussion at Ottawa. The Indians of the provinces if enfranchised must hold, possess and occupy separate and distinct tracts valued at not less than $150.

—The ladies in connection with the Methodist church intend holding a strawberry festival and promenade concert in the Temperance hall, Pandora street, on the evening of Monday, the 8th inst. The affair will doubtless be a very enjoyable one.

—Mr. Daly, secretary of the Y.M.C.A. reports for the month of May: Calls made on business by general secretary, 320; calls received, 220; calls made on young men, 225; letters written by strangers in room, 99; letters written by general secretary, 408; visitors to rooms, 4955.

—The damage to the North Pacific is so great that there is a doubt as to whether it will not be cheaper to build a new boat altogether, rather than repair the old one. The superintendent and master mechanic of the company have examined the machinery, and estimate the amount of repairs necessary at about $30,000.

HUDSON BAY COMPANY.

Mr. William Charles Succeeded in the Management by Mr. A. Munro.

Mr. William Charles yesterday resigned the position of manager of the Hudson Bay Co.'s affairs in this province, and is succeeded in the management by Mr. A. Munro, who assumes control temporarily. Mr. Charles was born in the Red River country, now known as Manitoba, and has been in the Hudson Bay company's employ for many years. He has traveled all over the Northwest country since first entering the company's service. For twelve years he has been manager of the company's affairs here, having succeeded Mr. Graham in that position. Mr. Munro, his successor, is likewise an old and very efficient officer of the company having likewise been considerably over a quarter of a century in their service. It is to be hoped his appointment will be a permanent one, for few officers are more popular with the public than is Mr. Munro, who is thoroughly familiar with the company's vast ramifications.

The West Victoria Indian Reserve.

A correspondent from Ottawa writing to THE TIMES says that efforts were made by a syndicate of Victoria capitalists to purchase from the government the Indian reserve on the other side of the harbor from this city, but that their efforts have failed. It is hinted that Sir Alex. Campbell gave certain pledges when in the city that the government would be willing to arrange with the Indians for another reserve elsewhere, and that the price received by the government for the reservation would be founded for the maintenance of the tribe now residing thereon. The promoters of the Island railway, it is understood, were extremely desirous of securing this choice locality for railway purposes and offered the Indian department a considerable sum for the property. The decision of the Department of the Interior now appears to be to let matters remain as they are for the present. There can be no question as to the desirability of removing the unsightly rancheree to a more remote locality from the city's suburbs. But the purchase of so valuable a tract of land should be open to public competition, and no other course will be regarded as satisfactory, or free from the suspicion of jobbery.

The Tacoma Absconder.

The Tacoma bank defaulter, Willey, who has been in Victoria for some months and running a small fruit store on Johnson street, left here to-day in company with Judge Hamilton, for the scene of his recent brilliant financial operations. When the Stee arrives at Tacoma, an officer of the law will be in waiting to take the unsuspecting Willey in charge. We did not learn what were the arguments advanced by Judge Hamilton to induce Willey to accompany him, but they must have been of a most persuasive character. Or, perhaps, it was a case of sought away, and Judge Hamilton a willing captive of the wily judge.

POLICE COURT.

(Before Edwin Johnson, Esq., S. M.)

Frank Stevens, drunk and disturbing the peace on Yates street. Fined $5 or one week.

John Ellis, vagrancy. Prisoner has been in the city one or two weeks, and yesterday got a dinner at the Occidental and was unable to pay for it. The magistrate did not think the evidence sufficient for a conviction and discharged prisoner.

Archibald Hamilton and James Devine breaking a window in a cabin on Herald street, when fighting with each other. Fined $4 and $1 costs or one week.

Roderick McDougall striking Sallie, a Stickeen Klootchman. The case was the outcome of a drunken orgie. Find $10 or 14 days.

Alaska's New Governor.

A. P. Swineford, the newly appointed governor of Alaska, is not a poet, but he is a Michigan editor, says the Chicago News. Harlow not knowing a choriambic dimeter from a pentamater idyllic, but he has penned tomes of scholarly and thoughtful editorials on the peach crop, and can tell to a fraction how many shingles and how much sawdust can be got out of a pine log measuring 40 feet in length and 5 feet in circumference. He is just the man to send to Alaska. In less than three months he will have the biggest sawmill and the finest peach orchard in that hyperborean territory. A man capable of such practical accomplishments is of much more value to our diplomatic service than would be a man who spent his time lolling around on beetling icebergs and penning sonnets to aurora borealis or iambic triolets to the dreamy flipflop of the succulent seal.

The Hog Stealing Case.

In the police court this afternoon J. P. Walls presented the case for the colored man, Gaut, who was charged with the larceny of hogs, in company with two other prisoners. He argued that there was no evidence before the court to justify his committal, as he was present at the delivery of the hogs to the Chinese ranch simply in the capacity of a servant. The magistrate took the same view, and discharged the prisoner. In the case against Elliott, the evidence was more direct, and he was committed to stand his trial at the next assizes. Evidence is being taken this afternoon in the case against Davie, the third prisoner. Mr. C. Wilson appeared for the prisoners.

A False Rumor.

THE TIMES is in a position to contradict the rumor that the C. P. Railway company had acquired more land on English Bay adjacent to the tract granted the company by the local government, comprising the naval reserve as well as the lands within the lines indicating the government reserve. The report lacks confirmation in every particular. No conclusion has yet been arrived at by the company in regard to the proposals made by private property owners in lots 196, 181, 182, 183, 184, 264 and 185, the matter being still under consideration.

Fan vs. Fan.

The case of Loo Chow Fan vs. Loo Chuck Fan occupied the attention of the supreme court to-day. The Chief Justice intimated that he would enter judgment for the plaintiff, establishing the partnership, unless the defendant should substantiate the statement that fresh and material evidence had been discovered necessitating a new trial. The case was further adjourned till Friday.

Suspected Murder at Eagle Pass.

The Kamloops Sentinel says that Officer Kirkup came down by last boat from Eagle Pass, having brought a young man named W. Brown a prisoner. He was committed by Squire Vowell, of Farwell, suspected of murdering a woman he is said to have been living with named Mary Purcell. Her body was found in the Columbia river, her head badly cut. Brown says she drowned herself.

Two Millions in Four Years.

An examination of the public accounts shows that I. G. Baker & Company drew over two millions from the government during the last four years. The opinion prevails in Ottawa, that the company have subsidized the government agents there and in the Northwest and that an investigation would reveal a rotten state of affairs in the Interior, Indian and Mounted Police departments.

Pool Selling.

The charge against Charles Clancy for having sold pools at the Victoria Driving Park races, was partially investigated today before Justices Fisher and McLean. After taking the evidence of three policemen, and the crown not being ready with any more witnesses, the case was remanded for a week. Mr. W. J. Taylor appeared for the defence.

FROM CASSIAR.

A Late Budget of News from the Cassiar Mines.

From a letter received by a gentleman in this city from Cassiar we gather the following: But little mining has been done on McDame creek and its tributaries during the winter on account of the cold at times registering 57 to 58 deg. below zero. On the celebrated first north fork of McDame creek, Rees and Beedy have taken out some gold with a prospect of that once famous stream coming up to its former repute. With the exception of Mr. Mitchell, the acting recorder, who has been suffering from neuralgia, but who is now improving, and the death of a Chinaman by being frozen while out hunting, every one has enjoyed good health. On Thibert creek the weather was also against mining pursuits and but little was added to the purses of the gold-seekers. The principal work done was in preparing for the following season, with a good prospect of several claims being heard from substantially, notably the Discovery Co., Berry Gulch, the Discovery Co. on Five-Mile Gulch, and the Discovery Co. on Blue Bell Gulch, all tributaries of Thibert. The health of this portion of the camp was good.

THE DEASE CREEK

output for the winter was but small, owing to the severe weather. John McCrimmon and Malcom McClure, owners of the Marquis of Lorne Co., a hill claim on this creek, who have been prospecting almost steadily in that ground for the last three years, are now rewarded for their application by obtaining prospects which promise to establish their claim as the best in Cassiar. The result of the washing of ten pans of gravel was gold valued at $122.25, which was received in this city by our informant, and is an excellent sample. This find establishes the long entertained idea that there is a rich deposit in that particular part of the hill, and the discovery will give profitable employment to a number of miners. The fortunate owners hold the value of their claim away up in the thousands. The health on this creek was also good. The output for the last season in Cassiar was larger to the man than any other mining camp in this province, and there is reason to believe that for the coming mining season that part of the country will REMAIN THE LEAD.

While it is true that the population of that part of Cassiar is nothing like what it has been in the past, yet the consumption of merchandise, and the contributions to the export of our province are very considerable items of trade. The residents of Cassiar feel that they have been unjustly dealt with by the local government in as much as that power reduced the road tolls to half a cent on the Cariboo road, which is many hundreds of miles in length, and besides the very large outlay in its construction it costs the country a much larger sum yearly to keep it in repair than the tolls collected thereon; while one cent per pound is still imposed on the Cassiar trail, a trail only seventy-two miles in length, and which has more than paid to the country every dollar that has been expended upon it, either in construction or repair. These people naturally ask against the hard working miners of that part of our common country. They have no fault to find with their member in the matter as they observed that he most urgently insisted upon justice being done our district. The old adage has it, "that chickens come home to roost." The northern bird is no exception, even if their perch be high on the mountains. Our worthy representative of the government in those parts, Mr. J. L. Crimp is as well and obliging as ever and always jolly. He is on hand in and out of season, and gives general satisfaction. The population on Stickeen river have enjoyed the usual quiet, business being about as usual.

THE GOOD BEHAVIOR

of the Indians, which are quite numerous, is mainly attributable to the firm stand taken by Mr. Giffin, constable, as they know that he is not afraid to do his duty. Mules and horses wintered well, and are in good condition for the coming season's packing. The several stores throughout that part of the district are well supplied with provisions and general mining supplies. The residents of Cassiar cannot understand why the Dominion government should continue to overlook their claims to a mail service. They believe that their grievance is more glaring in that particular than that of the half-breeds of the Northwest.

A Prince Albert dispatch says: It has been positively decided that all troops go to Battleford, and start to-morrow. Induce employers to have patience with their employees during their prolonged absence. Nine of the Winnipeg battery were sent home this morning in charge of Sergeant Burling. Also several of the 90th under Captain Wilkes. The troops left for Battleford on Friday, the infantry by boat, and the mounted men by trail. Our prisoners now number 33.
